

Canberra Times Saturday 20/9/2003
General News Page 13
Circulation: 39,165
Size: 25.34 sq.cms.

Divers help to protect reef

TOWNSVILLE: A global reef-protection project is enlisting recreational scuba divers to help look after the Great Barrier Reef.

The Reef Check Australia program, launched yesterday, trains divers to check for problems such as coral bleaching or nutrient pollution. It is part of a global program with volunteers in 62 countries.

Trained volunteers will visit sites along the Great Barrier Reef before heading to Papua New Guinea, Vanuatu and the Cook Islands next year.

Chronicle (Toowoomba) Saturday 20/9/2003
General News Page 15
Circulation: 26,603
Size: 32.40 sq.cms.

Divers to check reef

TOWNSVILLE: A global reef protection project is enlisting recreational scuba divers to help look after the Great Barrier Reef. The Reef Check Australia program, launched yesterday, trains divers to check for problems such as coral bleaching or nutrient pollution. Trained volunteers will visit sites along the Great Barrier Reef before heading to Papua New Guinea, Vanuatu and the Cook Islands next year.